

Griffin recognised again in “Financial Times: Europe’s Long term Growth Champions” report

30th October 2025

- For the second year running Griffin has been recognised in the Growth Champions report
- The report identifies European businesses which have demonstrated fast and organic growth over the last 10-years

Griffin has again been recognised as a European “Long-term Growth Champion” by the Financial Times in its special report which, in its latest release, charts sustained growth and development of businesses between 2014 and 2024.

This success follows Griffin’s appearance in the FT’s first long term growth report last year which highlighted businesses that have delivered growth during a decade that has included Brexit, Covid-19, the war in Ukraine and the European energy crisis.

This latest report lists Griffin in position 195 of Europe’s growth companies, a ranking that has been driven by continued strong performances across Griffin’s core markets in addition to new areas of growth in LNG, cross-commodity options and emissions.

Commenting on Griffin’s inclusion in this new Financial Times report, Nick Jackson, Griffin’s Chief Executive Officer said: “Since Griffin’s inception in 2011, we have worked tirelessly to be the best at what we do and provide our customers with the highest quality of service. And now, 14 years on, we are still doing the same – innovating wherever we can and striving to provide excellence in execution. So, it is fantastic for this hard work to be recognised through our listing in the Growth Champions report and we remain forever grateful to all our customers and partners for continuing to support us.”
